SUPPORTING SAFETY EXCELLENCE IN SCHOOLS

ABOUT OUR TRAINING

All of our courses can be delivered at your own school's premises, so that you don't have the hassle and expense of travelling and accommodation. This also means that you have the option of inviting other local schools to attend your course, allowing you to share the cost with them. We can often accommodate twilight sessions to help with the difficulties you might face with availability of staff.

All of our trainers are highly qualified professional practitioners in their disciplines. They also carry out SafetyMARK audits in schools across the country - so they know and understand schools and the issues that they face. This is essential when it comes to delivering courses which are relevant to schools as we are able to draw upon a vast pool of experience to help tailor content.

IOSH H&S FOR SENIOR LEADERS

This course is suitable for senior personnel with strategic responsibility for determining and implementing effective health and safety management systems within their school. This would be perfect for members of Senior Leadership Teams and would also appeal to governors.

This course enables senior management to demonstrate leadership by attending a course that is accredited by the UK's leading occupational health and safety institution. It will provide senior personnel with an insight into how health and safety management can be strategically integrated into other business objectives to enable effective management, and use a proven health and safety management system to best effect when dealing with stakeholders such as Ofsted and ISI, as well as parents.

Course Duration: One Day

IOSH H&S FOR SCHOOL MANAGERS

This course is suitable for managers of all departments within schools who have responsibility or involvement in implementing and managing health and safety systems. This is a course for those who have operational involvement with managing health and safety in schools.

This course enables people in schools with responsibility for managing or implementing health and safety systems to understand their key responsibilities, and how to implement them. This course is accredited and recognised by the UK's leading professional health and safety institution (Institution of Occupational Safety and Health – IOSH), and successful completion of this course will result in the delegate receiving training to a recognised standard of competence.

Course Duration: Two Days

ABOUT IN HOUSE

In House has a proven track record based upon long-standing partnerships with schools, providing support in all aspects of health and safety. We have a long list of schools that we work with in both the state and independent sectors.

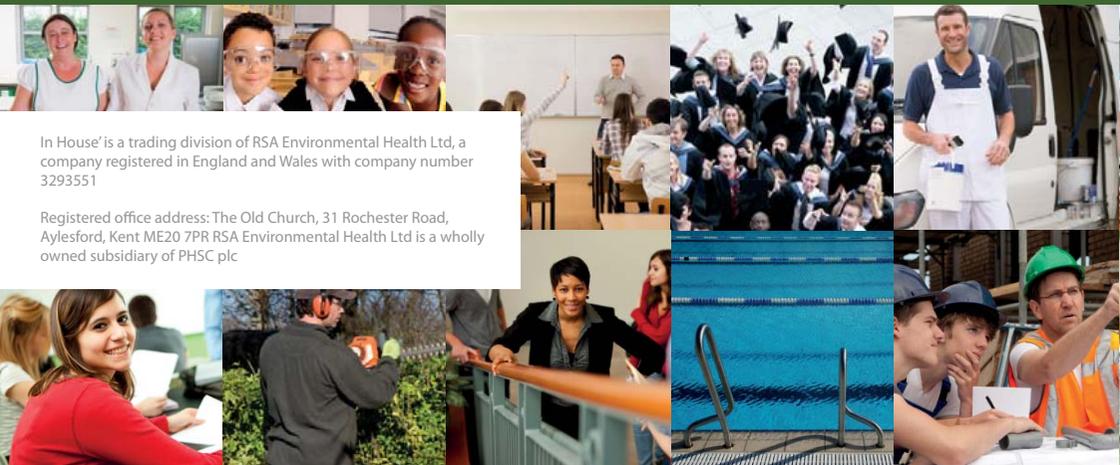

Over the years, we have worked closely with school governors, management and operational staff and so we understand the people, the environment and the risks. This means that In House has developed the knowledge and expertise necessary to help create safe environments for education.

At In House, we always look to provide pragmatic advice, which lessens the likelihood of accidents occurring, reduces staff absence due to injury or stress and promotes a positive safety culture.

As a part of PHSC plc, the safety and risk management group, In House is able to offer schools a complete one-stop shop of support services allied to health and safety. If you are looking for high quality, flexible safety support from an organisation that understands schools, then In House would be delighted to be your partner.
